This support guide explains the HotDocs Market publisher experience – from publishing your product to tracking and managing your subscriber activity. Our Customer Support team is available to assist both publishers and subscribers with any questions Monday - Friday from 9am - 8pm (EST/EDT) at 1 (844) 536-4343 or by email at support@hotdocsmarket.com.

You may also find our subscriber support useful as you launch your products on Market and engage both current and new customers. A Subscriber Onboarding Kit is also available for you to access and share with end users.

Getting Started, Publisher Portal

Accessing the HotDocs Market website is easy; simply navigate to: www.hotdocsmarket.com. When you sign into HotDocs Market as a publisher, you are brought to the dedicated Publisher Portal. This portal provides you with access to a comprehensive range of features, including managing your products, updating your publisher profile, organizing your publisher team, and tracking your products through user reviews and usage reports.

1-Dashboard

The Publisher dashboard page is the default landing page within our dedicated Publisher Portal. This Dashboard provides you with a snapshot of statistics for your product(s): number of active subscribers, current users, and the number of templates available. It even shows you your most popular product and template.

2-Products

The Product page provides a list of all your products within Market. By clicking a product name, you are shown individual product detail pages that detail your subscribers, pricing information, product description, and user reviews.

3-Profile

The Profile page enables you to manage the information you share about your organization. You can update your public profile, phone number and website details – and even add URLs to your organization’s home page. This is also where you can make changes to private details about your organization that are shared only with HotDocs.

4-Team

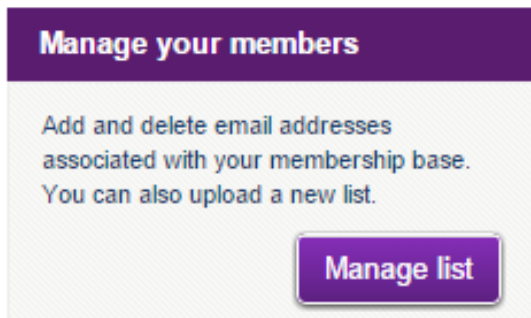

Many publishers have more than one person administering / supporting their products. You can add and remove Team Members within HotDocs Market to conduct business and publishing activities on behalf of your organization.

5-Reviews

Users who have active subscriptions are able to post product reviews. From the Reviews page you can see all reviews for your products. You can also reply to subscriber reviews.

6-Reports

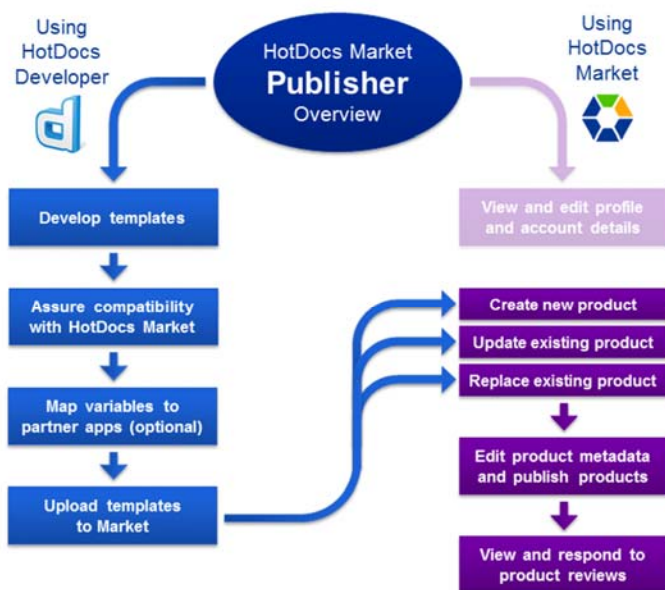

On the Reports page, you can select from your list of products, and then dive into the details for a specific product. If you do not see the reporting combinations you are looking for, please contact us to let us know what you would like to see.

7-Members

For organizations that have a membership base (e.g. State Bar Association), we enable you to identify your members using their email address. You can upload a list of email addresses for your members either from the dashboard or on your profile page, at the 'Manage your members' prompt on the right hand side of the screen, click Manage list.

Publishing Overview

HotDocs has made it easy to create, load and publish HotDocs templates from your HotDocs Developer account. Here's how:

Connecting with Market

1. Sign into HotDocs Market with your Publisher email address and password (which are sent to you once the license agreement is signed) to access the Publisher Portal.

Create a new product

You need to use the HotDocs Developer upload plugin to upload a product to the HotDocs Market.

After you download the configuration file, open HotDocs Developer and right click on the template you want to turn into a HotDocs Market product.

Click on Upload and click on HotDocs Market. Follow the instructions in the upload window and your new product is available under the New tab in the Product List when you finish.

Download Configuration File

2. Download the HotDocs Developer Configuration File. Go to the PRODUCTS tab of the Publisher Portal, look for the 'Create a new product' section on the right hand side of the page. Click Download Configuration File and follow the instruction in the browser window.

3. Once your templates are ready, you can use HotDocs Developer to upload your completed template(s) to HotDocs Market.

Prepare a Template for Upload

By default, templates you create in HotDocs Developer are enabled only for desktop use. You need to enable your templates for online use before you upload them to the HotDocs Market.

To enable a template for Market

1. Open HotDocs Developer on your computer.
2. Right click on the template you want to enable.
3. Select Test in Browser then select JavaScript.
4. If a warning message appears, then the template is not yet web-enabled. Click Enable.

Note: If the template has already been enabled, the Enable window does not appear; click Cancel.

5. On the Answer File dialog, choose a new or existing answer file then click OK.
6. Test that the interview is running as expected and assemble a test document.

After you upload a product to HotDocs Market, you should always test the templates in HotDocs Market to make sure they are working as expected.

Upload a New Product

1. Open HotDocs Developer on your computer.
2. Select the template or group of templates you wish to upload as a product. You can also do this by selecting the parent folder of the folder structure, if you have your templates saved this way.

4. Click Upload.
5. Click Create Product.
6. Type a product name, summary and description then click Create Product.
7. Click Close window.
8. Return to HotDocs Market in your browser. The product is now in under the New tab of your Product List.

Fix Template ID Conflicts

When you use the HotDocs Market upload plug-in to upload a template to HotDocs Market, you may encounter an issue with duplicate template IDs. If two or more templates on the HotDocs Market share the same template ID, HotDocs generates an error message alerting you to the problem, and specifying the templates that are in conflict.

To resolve a duplicated template identifier

1. In the HotDocs Developer library, select the template whose ID you want to change.
2. On the right side of the toolbar at the top of the library, click  Component Manager; then just below the Save icon, click  Component File Properties.
3. On the General tab, to the right of the Template Identifier box, click New. This updates the template ID.
4. Once you have addressed all the templates with duplicate identifiers you will need to Replace the library of the product on HotDocs Market.
5. You can then return to the HotDocs Market to publish the product.

Publish a New Product

1. Go to the PRODUCTS tab of the Publisher Portal.

2. Click the New tab of the Product List.
3. Click Actions next to the new product you wish to publish.

- Enable your templates for browser-based deployment—so you can upload your templates to HotDocs Market
- Use the Test in Browser feature of HotDocs Developer prior to uploading your templates to HotDocs Market to approximate your template interviews running in a web browser.

Subscriptions are on a monthly or yearly basis and are normally automatically renewed using the credit card details from the original purchase. When a subscription is about to expire, HotDocs sends a series of emails to the Subscriber to let them know the details of the renewal. HotDocs Market sends the following emails:

- 14 days before expiry: The email informs the Subscriber of the amount and date of the renewal charge for the product; HotDocs Market contact information and links are also included.
- 7 days before expiry: The email informs the Subscriber of the amount and date of the renewal charge for the product; HotDocs Market contact information and links are also included.
- Upon expiry (if payment not completed): The email informs the Subscriber that their subscription has now expired due to a payment error and they are now unable to access the product. The email informs the subscriber that they still have access to answer files from previous sessions but are unable to generate new documents until they make a payment. The subscriber is also given a link to update their billing information and complete the payment. If they are not the primary subscriber, the email does not give the option to complete the payment for this subscription; instead, they are instructed to contact the primary subscriber with any questions or purchase a new subscription from the Market; HotDocs Market contact information and links are also provided.

Subscribers and Users, Account Actions

The primary difference between a Subscriber and a User is that only the Subscriber may see the financial details associated with the subscriptions they have purchased. A User that has received an invitation to share in a subscription (purchased by someone else) does not have access to any of the financial information of the purchase.

It is important recognize that someone can be both a 'Subscriber' on a product they have directly purchased, and a 'User' on a product that someone else has purchased and shared with them.

Subscribers and Users can access all of the same pages as the Visitor above, as well as the Subscriber Portal which enables the following activities. Publishers can also access many of these options by clicking on My Account.
